A position describes the role, job details, reporting relationships which could be both administrative and functional, apart from responsibilities, the key result areas and key performance indicators drawn by the incumbent in consultation with the Reporting Officer

The levels and corresponding designations are based on the functional responsibilities of each individual position. However, the Organization structure is provided with sub levels with corresponding designations to avoid stagnation. The responsibilities of the sub levels within a level could be same, but substantially differ from one main level to other.

Migration from the current designations to the revised designations in respect of Deputationists, FTEs, Field Operations Staff is detailed in Sub-policy .2

ARTICLE NO.31

SEXUAL HARASSMENT

Respect for others is one of the fundamental principles of conduct for all the employees of the Trust. It is also one of the pre-requisites for a productive work environment in which all the employees can contribute at their highest level.

Sexual Harassment is considered the meanest form of disrespect to people. It can take a heavy toll on people, companies and industry. It can undermine morale, erode productivity and foster a hostile work environment for everyone in the workplace.

Incidents of sexual harassment result in painful experiences for the victims and the Trust. Trust's Policy is to prohibit sexual harassment of any kind and from any person, be it a Supervisor, co-worker, Manager, Supplier, Customer. Any employee found to have engaged in sexual harassment, after an impartial investigation, will receive prompt disciplinary action, up to and including dismissal. If the harasser is a supplier or customer, appropriate action will be taken to end the harassment and prevent future occurrences.

Sexual harassment may be defined as unwelcome advances, requests for sexual favours, and other verbal or physical conduct of a sexual nature when:

Submission to such conduct is made either explicitly or implicitly a term or condition of an individual's employment, pay revision, promotions or retention.

Submission to or rejection of such conduct by an individual is used as the basis for employment or business decisions affecting such individual, or

Such conduct has the effect of unreasonably interfering with an individual's work performance or creating an intimidating, hostile or offensive working environment.

Sexual harassment includes the display in the workplace of sexually suggestive objects, signs, posters or pictures, lewd comments and sexual jokes or references. If any employee is experiencing sexual harassment, it is important to keep in mind that he/she can take action to eliminate it. At the first instance the harasser shall be told to stop. Although confronting the harasser may be difficult, harassee is encouraged to do so in a firm manner, irrespective of the rank and position of the harasser. If there is a physical harassment, the harassee shall firmly separate him/herself that and let it be known in clear words that the harassee is offended by such actions. If harassee comfortable confronting the harasser, or if the harassment continues even after resistance, it should be taken up with HR/Reporting Officer or a higher level Authority whom the harassee trusts. All complaints of sexual harassment will be investigated promptly and impartially.

Every employee of the Trust is expected to promptly report to the Trust any actual or possible violation of the principles of Conduct of the Trust and the employees, or any other unlawful or unethical or improper practice or act or activity concerning the Trust, which may include but is not limited to, any of the following:

- i. A violation of any law
- ii. Misuse or misappropriation of the Trust's assets
- iii. Gross waste of or misuse or misappropriation of the Trust's funds
- iv. A substantial and specific danger to health and safety
- v. An abuse of authority,

No Officer or any other employee with authority to make or materially influence significant personnel decisions shall take or recommend an adverse personnel action against an employee in knowing retaliation for a disclosure of information, made in good faith, about an alleged wrongful conduct.

GOOD FAITH

An employee shall be deemed to be communicating in 'good faith' if there is a reasonable basis for communication of the alleged wrongful conduct. Good faith shall be deemed lacking when the employee does not have personal knowledge of or a factual basis for the communication or where the employee knew or reasonably should have known that the communication about the alleged wrongful conduct is malicious, false or frivolous.

ROLES, RIGHTS AND RESPONSIBILITIES OF WHISTLE-BLOWERS

Whistle-Blowers provide initial information based on a reasonable belief that an alleged wrongful conduct has occurred. The motivation of a whistle-blower is irrelevant to the consideration of the validity of the allegations. However, the intentional filing of a false report, whether orally or in writing, is itself considered an improper activity, which the Designated Committee (WB Committee consisting of CEO and two HoDs) has the right to act upon.

Whistle-Blowers shall refrain from obtaining evidence for which they do not have a right of access. Such improper access may itself be considered an improper activity.

Whistle-Blowers have a responsibility to be candid with the members of the Designated Committee or others to whom they make a report of alleged improper activities and shall set forth all known information regarding any reported allegations.

Anonymous whistle-blowers must provide sufficient corroborating evidence to justify the commencement of an investigation. An investigation of unspecified wrong doing or broad allegations would not be undertaken without verifiable evidence. Because investigators are unable to interview anonymous whistleblowers, it may be more difficult to evaluate the credibility of the allegations and, therefore, less likely to cause an investigation to be initiated.

Whistle-Blowers are “reporting parties,” not investigators. They are not to act on their own in conducting any investigative activities, nor do they have a right to participate in any investigative activities other than as requested by the investigating authority.

The identity of the whistle-blower will not be disclosed except where required under the law or for the purpose of the investigation. Should, however, the whistle-blower self-disclose his or her identity, there will no longer be an obligation not to disclose the whistle-blower’s identity.

A whistle-blower’s right to protection from retaliation does not extend immunity for any complicity in the matters that are the subject of the allegations or an ensuing investigation or any other misconduct or wrong doing.

This policy may not be used as a defense by an employee against whom an adverse personnel action has been taken for legitimate reasons or cause under Trust rules and policies. It shall not be a violation of this policy to take adverse personnel action against an employee, whose conduct or performance warrants that action, separate and apart from that employee making a disclosure.

PROCEDURES:

a) For Making a Disclosure

Any employee who observes or has knowledge of an alleged wrongful conduct shall make a disclosure to any of the members of the Trust WB Committee as soon as possible but not later than 60 consecutive calendar days after becoming aware of the same. The disclosure may be made in writing (by e-mail or on paper) or orally (a personal meeting or over the telephone).

The Committee to which the disclosure has been made shall appropriately and expeditiously investigate all whistle-blower reports received. In this regard, the Committee, if the circumstances so suggest, may appoint a senior officer or a committee of managerial personnel to investigate into the matter. The Committee shall have the right to outline a detailed procedure for an investigation.

b) For Filing a Complaint by Whistle-Blower

Not later than 30 days after a current or former employee is notified or becomes aware of an adverse personnel action, he or she may protest the action by filing a written Whistle-Blower complaint with any member of the Trust WB Committee if the employee believes the action was based on his or her prior disclosure of alleged wrongful conduct. The Committee on receipt of a Whistle-Blower complaint shall appoint a senior officer or a committee of managerial personnel to review the complaint. Within 45 days of the complaint, the Senior Officer or Committee will submit a report to the CEO. After considering the report, the CEO shall determine the future course of action and may order remedial action.

c). NOTIFICATION

CEO of the Trust is required to notify and communicate the existence and contents of this policy to the employees. The new employees shall be informed about the policy by the HR department.

This policy, as amended from time to time, shall be made available on the website/internet of the Trust.

d) AMENDMENT

The Trust reserves its right to amend or modify this Policy in whole or in part, at any time without assigning any reason whatsoever.
